G2's Jason Stoops named Outstanding Young Civil Engineer of the Year

Troy, Mich./Nov. 3, 2009 – Jason Stoops, P.E., a project manager in the geotechnical group at G2 Consulting Group in Troy, Mich., has been named Outstanding Young Civil Engineer of the Year by the Southeastern Michigan Branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE).

The award recognizes Stoops for his role serving as chair of the society's legislative affairs committee, his lobbying efforts in Washington, D.C. on behalf of the civil engineering community and for his work with G2 on the ITC headquarters project in Novi, Mich.

Stoops, a G2 employee since 2001, is a licensed professional engineer (P.E.) in Michigan, and earned a master's degree in civil engineering and a bachelor's degree in civil and environmental engineering from the University of Michigan. He is a member of ASCE, ASCE's Geo-Institute geo-legislative committee and the Chi Epsilon Society at University of Michigan. Stoops lives in Livonia, Mich.

G2 Consulting Group (www.g2consultinggroup.com) is a full-service engineering firm serving Fortune 500 companies, major utilities, property owners, government agencies and leading architectural, engineering and construction firms across the United States. Based in Troy, Mich., G2 also has offices in Brighton, Mich., and suburban Chicago, Ill.
